

Notes from the United Kingdom

Genetics services

Clinical genetics services are provided across the UK through 23 regional centres (including 5 in Greater London). All services come under the remit of the National Health Service and so are free of charge. They provide diagnostic, further management and counselling services for families with inherited conditions.