

Note from the Australia and New Zealand

The role of Nurses in Genetics

Nurses in Australia and New Zealand work in many specialty areas including genetics. There are currently few genetic nurses, however a dedicated nursing faculty member hopes to change this in the near future.